House in Córdoba*

World heritage

A close-up photograph of a white, plush teddy bear. The bear is positioned in the center-right of the frame, with its head and front paws visible. The bear's fur is soft and white, with gold-colored embroidery on its chest and paws. The embroidery appears to be a stylized logo or signature. The background is a solid, light brown color. The text "Welcome to the excellence of detail..." is overlaid on the left side of the image in a white, cursive font.

AN ARCHITECTURAL REINTERPRETATION OF THE CLASSIC ANDALUSIAN CORTIJO

Comprising more than 1,200 hectares, the fields and meadows around the Country House in Córdoba are used in a harmonious and diverse way. In addition to raising organic livestock and grassland, various native species can be seen, such as deer, wild boar, roe deer and partridge. This rich diversity also includes a very special olive grove and one of the country's most highly acclaimed olive oils is produced here at its own olive press.

The house is built around an impressive courtyard and offers views over the Breña reservoir and beyond to the incomparable Almodóvar castle. The courtyard is enclosed by adjoining verandas and allows an exceptional light to pervade the entire complex. The rustic Andalusian traditions mix with an attentive English-inspired decor and give the house an unrivalled ambience.
